Otten out at ASC

Leslie B. Otten, who was responsible for the growth of Sunday River Ski Resort and the development of the American Skiing Company, resigned Wednesday from his position as ASC's chairman and chief executive officer.

William "B.J." Fair, currently ASC's chief operating officer, has been named chief executive officer of the company.

Speaking yesterday from Florida, where he had been watching his son B.J. play baseball for Middlebury College, Otten said the decision to resign was "the toughest decision of my life." But it had

ASC merger falls through

Associated Press

Ski resort operator American Skiing Company and hotel manager MeriStar Hotels & Resorts last week dropped three-month-old plans to merge amid concerns from minority shareholders and worries about obtaining the financing necessary to operate the combined company.

The companies unexpectedly disclosed Friday their boards had called off the deal as ASC's shareholders were gathering to vote on it.

ASC planned to acquire MeriStar for stock valued at $185 million when the deal was announced Dec. 11. It said the deal would help it reduce the seasonal fluctuations of the ski business by combining it with a hotel and resort operator whose business isn't weather dependent.

But shareholders, senior lenders and bondholders all expressed concerns, said Skip King, spokesman for ASC in Newry.

"The deal just never made sense because the concept of becoming a four-season company might sound good but in reality the lodging industry is just as cyclical as the skiing business," said Brad McCurtain, president of Maine Securities.

Also, ASC's minority shareholders were concerned when MeriStar failed to meet analysts' expectations in the fourth quarter while ASC was having the best ski season in years, he said.

ASC's ski resorts include Sunday River and Sugarloaf in Maine, Attitash/Bear Peak in New Hampshire, Killington, Sugarbush and Mt. Snow in Vermont, Steamboat in Colorado, Heavenly in California and The Canyons in Utah. Washington-based MeriStar owns 113 full-service hotels in 27 states, the District of Columbia and Canada.

Spring's first color is white

By ALISON ALOISIO

A spring snowstorm last week dumped up to 24 inches of snow in the Bethel area and caused widespread power outages.

It began snowing mid-morning last Thursday, and didn't stop until early Saturday. The storm brought the total snow depth to four feet in places. Power outages caused by the weight of the new snow on limbs and lines brought back memories of the Ice Storm of '98.

Most of Bethel Village was without electricity Friday, causing some businesses (including The Citizen) to close early.

Other areas, such as parts of Albany, Hanover, Andover, Gilead, Greenwood, Woodstock and Newry, lost power until Saturday or Sunday. Many people relied on generators they had purchased during or after the 1998 ice storm.

Phone service also went out for a time in some places.

A new restaurant in Bryant Pond, Dos Burros, was scheduled to open Sunday. But when the freezer went out for approximately 40 hours — resulting in the loss of $500 worth of food — the opening had to be postponed until Wednesday. About two feet of snow was measured in Woodstock.

In Gilead, the power outage forced town officials to finish up the Town Meeting warrant by hand Friday, in order to have it posted Saturday. The Town Meeting is this Saturday, and law requires posting for seven days prior to the meeting.

In a cloud of dust

Go-carts race around the track on Hawkins Field in Greenwood. This photo was taken before the go-carters were required to dampen the track to keep the dust down. But some nearby residents say not some track users — including small pick-up trucks — still use the track dry. And one resident has described the noise from the track as "unbearable." (Photo by David Pilling)

Dustup looms over Greenwood go-cart track

By MICHAEL DANIELS

With no new regulatory initiatives on the warrant, and a proposed municipal budget increase of a relative modest 2.4 percent, Greenwood's annual Town Meeting Saturday would promise to be a quiet affair — were it not for the dust and roar of racing go-carts.

Article 64 on the 67-article warrant asks voters to approve the use of a town-owned parcel of land for a go-cart track.

The approval, if granted, will be after the fact. The track has already been built and used for races — to the dismay of some nearby residents.

An approval might also be illegal. According to the town's code enforcement officer, Greenwood's Shoreland Zoning Ordinance prohibits the parcel in question from being used for such activities.

The 18-acre parcel, known as the Hawkins Field, is located off Route 219 (or the "West Paris Road"), just west of the intersection with the Old County Road. It is located between Route 291 and the Little Androscoggin River.

This past year, a group of go-cart enthusiasts cleared brush from the land and constructed a dirt go-cart

W'stock selectman and library trustee ousted

By ALISON ALOISIO

It was a tough night for incumbents at the Woodstock Town Meeting Monday, as voters ousted town officials Rosalie and Leon Poland by Gore/Bush-style margins.

After first appearing to win reelection to her library trustee seat by one vote, Rosalie Poland then lost by one in a revote.

It took three ballots by the roughly 120 townspeople in attendance to decide the contest among Poland, Valerie Billings and Peter Brown.

The first vote produced a 36-36 tie between Poland and Billings, with Brown receiving 29 votes. In a second vote, Poland garnered the most ballots with 51. Billings and Brown had 50 and eight, respectively.

But Vern Maxfield, Woodstock town manager, pointed out that the winner needed a majority of the votes cast. Brown then withdrew — and Billings won 55-54.

Prior to the votes, the candidates were asked their views on censorship of books in the library. All voiced their opposition.

Billings also stressed she wanted to spearhead an effort to get more

Gilead voters will close out 2001 meeting season

By ALISON ALOISIO

A proposal for a new town building and a request to plow the road in the Androscoggin Valley Views development top the agenda at Saturday's Gilead Town Meeting.

Voters will decide whether to borrow up to $150,000 to build either a new garage for the Highway Department or a new station for the Fire Department.

Selectmen are not formally recommending one or the other, according to Beverly Corriveau, administrative assistant for the town. But, she said, they are leaning in favor of the garage.

The departments currently share a building in the center of town. A new garage would be placed near the sand/salt shed, leaving the older building for the Fire Department. The other option is to build a new station, giving the current building to the Highway Department.

The loan for either project would be for 10 years. Selectmen are also recommending Gilead refinance current paving and land loans to 10-year notes, reducing the overall payment. The current loans are for four and seven years, respectively. Low interest rates make refinancing advisable, the officials said.

Voters will also consider a request from property owners in the Androscoggin Valley Views development to plow their road, which is .6 miles in length.

Corriveau said there are currently about five homes in the development, with two new ones going in. Town officials, she said, are cautious about taking on the responsibility for plowing the hillside road. The town's share of the school

GO-CART TRACK IS ILLEGAL

To the Editor:
This letter is to inform Greenwood residents of our opposition to Article 64 on the Town Meeting Warrant for March 31, 2001.
The article, as written, asks the citizens of the Town of Greenwood to approve the use of town-owned property on West Paris Road (Route 219), known as Hawkins Field, for a recreational go-cart track and future recreational activities.
We purchased the old Hawkins farmhouse on Old County Road almost 15 years ago and have restored the home to the tax structure of the town. We have enjoyed the quiet setting.
It was to our great surprise on a day last July to find this racetrack in operation. The dust and noise were overwhelming. This caused us to close our doors and windows as the SW prevailing wind was blowing said dust into our home. We made our concerns known by phone to the chairman of the Board of Selectmen, and also at a later selectmen's meeting. We were told they were incorrect in giving permission to this group to use this residential town-owned land without voter approval.
We strongly urge Town Meeting voters to vote against Article 64 at the upcoming Town Meeting. The passage of this article is most assuredly not in the best interest of our town, and if passage is to occur, one has to ask what precedents are being set and what future inappropriate and illegal uses of land will be sanctioned.

MIDDLE EAST PRESENTATION

To the Editor:
Darby Hickey of Bryant Pond, a graduate of Gould Academy and Friends World College, will speak on "Contextualizing the Arab/Israeli Conflict" on March 30 at 7:30 p.m. at the West Parish Congregational Church. He lived in Israel during the academic year 2000.
After several years of apparent progress, the peace process is in shambles and almost 500 people (mostly Palestinians) have been killed since the outbreak of violence. In September 2000, Hickey ended an extended stay in Jerusalem just months before the eruption of the Al-Aqsa Intifada, during which he learned about all sides of the conflict from those directly involved.
He will seek to tell a story of the current situation that he feels has not been told in the U.S. media, and brings a history of critical media studies to examine the historical context of recent events.
The evening will serve as a comprehensive but accessible session equipping those who attend with the knowledge and skills to better understand what the Israeli-Palestinian conflict is about. For more information, contact me at 665-2577.

ACADEMIC AWARDS NIGHT THANKS

To the Editor:
The Telstar Student Academics Awards Night was recently held at Telstar's Helen Berry Auditorium.
The Friends of THS wish to congratulate the many award recipients for their outstanding achievements. Hats off for a job well done.
Telstar's principal, Dr. Patrick O'Neill, hosted the evening's festivities. As parents, staff and students entered the auditorium, the school song was heard. The backdrop for the evening was a PowerPoint presentation presented by Claire Carver, and a few of her very talented students. During the PowerPoint presentation, each student and advisor at Telstar, in their respective satellite groups were presented on the screen. Thanks to the many parents that were able to bring something sweet to share; punch and refreshments were served in the cafeteria. Thanks to Mrs. Joanne Crockett for all her help. We would also like to thank Mr. Timothy O'Connor and a few of his woodworking students who were able to make over 50 wooden plaques as part of the awards. These plaques were given to students who achieved either honors or high honors. The Friends group also wishes to thank a group of dedicated volunteers whom we could not have pulled together such a fabulous ceremony without their much-needed help. Thanks go to Nancy Grover, Cheryl Young, Sheri Wilson, Gina Douglass, Tara Durgin, Theresa Estes, Marjorie Osgood.
The Telstar staff deserves a huge thanks for all the many awards that were given. It takes much thought and we thank them for their energy in finding many categories in which to appreciate the high number of students that were recognized. Many great things happen at Telstar.
The spring awards ceremony will take place in June; more information will be forthcoming. Anyone who would like to join in planning for the spring awards, please leave your name in the Telstar office in care of the Friends group. Well done everyone.

JA LUNCHEON THANKS

To the Editor:
During the snowstorm on Thursday, March 27, 12 individuals took part in a strategic planning luncheon hosted by the Sudbury Inn. A scrumptious lunch and many great ideas for expanding Junior Achievement programs for the next school year were shared. Thank you to all who braved the storm: Robin Zinchuk, Bethel Chamber; Barry Estes, Bethel Chamber Education Committee; Al Barth Bethel selectman; Sara Roderick, Key Bank; Don Murphy, Town of Bethel; Scott Mills, ASC; Preston Jump, JA Maine; and Bethel Advisory Council members, Rosabelle Tift, Eileen Meisner, and Mary Theresa Estes. Thank you all for joining JA's commitment to "educate and inspire young people to value free enterprise, business and economics, while improving the quality of their lives."
With the goals established for this year, JA programs will impact the lives of 319 students in SAD44. For more information on this valuable curriculum, please call Robin Mills at 824-2669 or 824-3768, or e-mail rrmills@megalink.net, or check www.ja.org.

track approximately 500 feet in length. (They are using only a small portion of the total parcel.)

They had received permission from the town selectmen, but did not put the plan before the town Planning Board until August, after the track was in operation and neighbors had begun to complain about the noise and dust.

The Planning Board then reviewed the project and gave its OK, provided the go-carters using the track wet it down before races, install mufflers on all the carts, abide by a curfew, and put up "no trespassing" signs to prevent unauthorized use.

As Rodney Westleigh, the Planning Board chairman, recalls it: "People started squawking and it went to the Planning Board. We took care of it."

But no permit was issued, and a permit is required under the town's Shoreland Zoning Ordinance.

The only formal documentation of the arrangement appears to be an earlier agreement signed by Town Manager Carol Whitman and Greg Inman, president of the Western Maine Modified Karting Club.

But, agreement or no agreement, town Code Enforcement Officer John Gauthier regards the go-cart track as illegal.

He argues that under the town's Shoreland Zoning Ordinance the Hawkins' Field parcel is classified as a "Limited Residential" zone, and the same ordinance explicitly limits "racetracks" to "General Development" zones.

In the minutes of the Aug. 21 Planning Board meeting the project is also referred to as a "racetrack."

The ordinance does, however, allow for "public and private recreational areas involving minimal structural development," in Limited Residential zones.

In this case, said Rich Baker, shoreland zoning coordinator for the Maine Department of Environmental Protection, the track, because it is not commercial, could probably be considered under the latter category.

"But it's certainly not what we had in mind when we drew up the guidelines for Limited Residential zones," he said. "Whether it's commercial or not, it's going to have the same effect on its neighbors and the same effect on the shoreland environment."

people to use the library, which, under Poland and the other trustees, has undergone an expansion.

"There are a lot of faces I haven't seen (in the library). The library's beautiful — let's use it," Billings told residents.

Poland cited her past work on the library project, including fundraisers to support it.

But Billings, who had not formally announced her candidacy before the meeting, prevailed in the end.

Monk defeats Leon Poland
Poland's husband, incumbent selectman chair Leon Poland, suffered a similar fate in his reelection bid. Another candidate who had made no formal announcement, Percy Monk, narrowly defeated him 66-63.

Monk has served in the past as both selectman and road foreman. In speaking to voters on his decision to run, Monk said, "There's a lot of stuff that needs to be done, and I'd like to be a part of it."

Poland, for his part, said there are problems with the Greenwood-Woodstock solid waste partnership that need attention, but he did not elaborate. He also said work is needed to "put the Highway Department back together."

(After Monk left the road foreman position last year for another job, he was replaced for several months by another Highway Department employee, David Currier. Currier left this month to become self-employed. Another employee, Randy Eastman, is serving as the contact person with Maxfield and selectmen, as they decided against appointing another foreman.)

The evening's other elections were more routine. In a vote preceding the one for Rosalie Po-

Baker also said that such a facility, be it racetrack or recreational facility, requires a formal Shoreland permit from the Planning Board.

Noise and dust

David and Ruth Pilling live in the former Hawkins farmhouse, which overlooks Hawkins Field from the hill approximately an eighth of a mile to the north.

A line of trees blocks their view of the track area itself, but not of the dust the go-carts turn up. In photographs taken early in the summer when the go-carts were racing, dust hovers in a thick cloud over the line of trees.

And when the wind is right, the Pillings say, the dust ends up blowing through their windows.

The requirement that the track be wet down before use has helped somewhat with the dust, they said, but some go-carters still practice without first wetting down the dirt, and small pickup trucks occasionally race on the dry track at night — undeterred by the "No trespassing" signs.

And despite the mufflers, the noise is still overwhelming, they say. "It just reverberates off the (nearby) ledges," said Ruth Pilling.

Fred Henderson lives on the Richardson Hollow Road, about a mile from the track.

He agrees with the Pillings about the noise. "Last summer, after they had been told to put on the mufflers, I was inside the house one day, with the windows closed, and my wife was outside mowing the lawn," he said. "I was trying to watch television but couldn't hear it over the noise from the go-carts."

Inman, president of the go-cart club, told The Citizen his group uses the track only "a couple of evenings a week. I don't think we're up there before dinner," he said.

He described the activity as "a bunch of fellas and their families that go up and run go carts on it. It's like going on your four-wheeler, but we need ground that is somewhat smooth."

The club built a water system with a pump and fire hose, he said, and has used calcium chloride "a couple of times" to help reduce the dust. "But the pump works better," he said, "and we'd have to spend money on calcium chloride."

He said mufflers used on the gocarts are "performance mufflers," and he compared the noise made by a go-cart to that of a wood splitter.

And he said while cars and trucks used the track before the "no trespassing" signs were put up, "there was no problem after that."

A roster of the Western Maine Modified Kart Racing Club, on file in the Greenwood Town Office, lists members and their addresses. Three of the 48 members have Greenwood addresses.

Other Town Meeting matters
This year's proposed municipal budget totals $783,562, up $18,518 from last year's figure of $765,044.

The larger increases are in insurance, up $6,000, to $57,000; town roads, wages, up $10,000 to $150,000; town office expenses repairs and equipment, up $8,200 to $28,200; town garage, up $4,000, to $10,000, work on the Greenwood Road (two articles), up $8,000, to $61,000; SAD44 directors, up $600, to $1,200; recreation and administration of the Animal Control Ordinance are each up $500, to $6,000 and $5,000, respectively.

New expenditures proposed for this year include: $20,000 for future construction north of Point Hill on the Greenwood Road; $10,000 for the removal of dead trees along ponds on the Greenwood Road; and $10,000 for the establishment of a highway equipment reserve account.

The largest decline in this year's proposed budget is in the amount of money recommended for maintenance and continuing renovation of the Greenwood Town Hall. Two articles this year call for raising $11,150, down from last year's figure of $34,000.

In elections for town offices, two-term incumbent Selectman Dennis Wilson is being challenged for a three-year term by Fred Henderson.

Two incumbent SAD44 directors are seeking to serve again, Richard Melville for another three-year term; Walter Brough to complete the two years remaining on the seat he was appointed to following last year's Town Meeting.

This year's meeting will return to the Town Hall, after being held for the past two years in the Jackson-Silver American Legion Post. It will begin a 10 a.m., Saturday, March 31.

skeptical of making a change, and both articles were defeated.

On another village issue, townspeople informally approved creating a committee to study the feasibility of putting a sewer system in the village. Selectmen will appoint a committee. The straw vote was 39-26.

Also approved was the sale of a one-third acre lot acquired by the town for non-payment of taxes. The lot, located just south of the Moll-ykett Motel, will be sold to abutters Donald and Virginia Mason for the $713 in taxes owed plus legal costs.

There was some opposition to the proposal by residents who said the property should be sold by bid. But others said selling to the Masons was the most logical move.

Voters also gave their approval to establishing a fine for people who build without a permit. The fine, as proposed in the article, will be 10 times the permit fee. The fee varies according to the project, and can range from $10 to $75.

Bill Seames amended the articles to three times the fee, saying it was too steep a penalty. But, said selectman Steve Bies, that would do little to discourage violators. "There needs to be a meaningful difference between the fine and the fee," he said. A majority agreed, defeating the amendment and ultimately approving the article.

Big-ticket items on the warrant went relatively easily. Voters approved spending up to $190,000 for a new fire truck, using a combination of funds raised from taxes, money in the Fire Truck Reserve Account and $70,000 from surplus.

The meeting, moderated by David Bobbe, concluded at 10:30 p.m.

Briefly

Bridge bill part of construction bill

AUGUSTA—The bill, LD 653, that would fund a snowmobile bridge on Route 2 has been withdrawn and rolled into the DOT general construction bill, LD 1504. "This is the best possible thing that could happen," said Bob Meyers of the Maine Snowmobile Association. Due to the storm last Friday, the hearing before the Joint Standing Appropriations Committee was sparsely attended. There weren't any representatives from the three communities that would benefit from the construction bond issue, Canton, The Forks, and Bethel. Even without support, the proposal was well received by the committee. A number of state agencies supported issuing the construction bond for snowmobile bridges and fishing and boat access at state highway bridges. They included DOT, the Maine Motor Transit Association, and the Coastal Conservation Commission. Meyers said that it is time for concerned citizens to contact their local legislators, garnering support for the construction bonds as LD 1504 goes before the full House and Senate. According to Meyers, the Governor supports the construction bond issue, and will sign the bill if passed. The bill would then be in the hands of voters in November.

Parsons wins Nationals

MAMMOTH MOUNTAIN, Calif.—Local snowboarder Thomas Parsons took first place in the Boardercross event last Wednesday at the USASA Snowboarding National Championships at Mammoth Mountain in California. Parsons, a senior at Gould Academy, won his time trial and all four heats of the event. His win at the national level comes on the heels of his first-place finish in Boardercross at the Junior Olympics/Eastern Championships on March 4 at Sugarloaf. Following the USASA National Championships, Parsons departed for Sappada, Italy, where he is competing as a member of the U.S. Ski Team in the World Junior Snowboarding Championships. The son of Jeff and Pattie Parsons of Bethel, Parsons is coached by Chris Davies of the Gould/Sunday River race program.

SAD44 personnel changes

BETHEL—The SAD44 School Board Tuesday was notified of the impending retirement of Telstar High School history teacher Rod Abbott and the resignation of special education teacher Patricia Lee Allen. The board also approved the appointment of Deborah Berman as a speech therapist for the next school year. John Kimball was approved as a volunteer assistant coach for the Telstar Middle School softball team for this season. The board also voted to eliminate the Title I educational technician position at the Woodstock Elementary School. The move is part of an ongoing effort to use Title I money to place tutors in each classroom instead of employing ed techs. The plan is a more effective use of the funds, Supt. Kent Rosberg said.

At-risk student program sought

BETHEL—SAD44 will submit an application for a $375,000 federal grant to support a program for at-risk Telstar students in grades six to nine. If approved, the three-year program would establish an extended-day and extended-year program that would operate weekdays during the regular school year and also offer a seven-week summer program. Approximately 15 students would be considered for the program. The curriculum would offer remedial academics, outdoor leadership training, cultural arts and technology and distance-based (virtual) education. The SAD44 School Board approved the application Tuesday.

Newry foots bill for hazardous waste

NEWRY—Town officials were caught by surprise this week at the size of the bill for a hazardous waste removal day held last year. The bill for $4,310, sent by Sunday River Ski Resort, covered hazardous material brought by businesses and residential property owners to a site at the skiway. Previous hazardous waste services, offered for residential waste only, totaled several hundred dollars when the material was brought to a Woodstock collection site. When word got out that Sunday River was accepting the waste, selectmen said, many people responded. Among items left were barrels of oil. "We probably got rid of a lot of stuff from other towns," said Bill Wight, because Newry did not provide supervision to check the origin of the waste. "It's an expensive lesson," said selectman Steve Wight. But, he added, it was good the waste was at least disposed of properly. In the future, the town will offer waste disposal in partnership with Bethel and Hanover as part of the tri-town solid waste agreement.

Daffodil Days at Foodliner

BETHEL—Local volunteers will be selling daffodils today (Thursday) at the Bethel Foodliner as part of Daffodil Days. Daffodils are available in bunches of 10 at $6 a bunch, with proceeds benefiting the American Cancer Society. The flowers will be on sale from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Groups sought for Trails Day

NEWRY—The Maine Appalachian Trail Club is looking for organizations interested in hiking-related activities to take part in a National Trails Day event at the Bear River Grange June 2. Possible activities to be offered include games, displays, demonstrations, retail and education. Groups such as rescue services, law enforcement, scout troops, schools or camps, public agencies or any others with interest are encouraged to contact Steve Wight at 824-2410.

Proposed Region 9 budget ready

MEXICO—Residents of the member towns of Region 9 School of Applied Technology will act on the FY02 budget April 24 in a town-meeting style gathering. The $890,742 proposed vocational budget, completed last week by the Region 9 board, is down 3.5 percent from the current figure. The $211,861 adult and community education budget is up about 7 percent. The lower secondary budget is the result of a recent move by all vocational programs and adult ed into one facility.

County may get storm aid

PARIS—Oxford County has been declared eligible for federal emergency assistance as a result of the March 5 snowstorm. Officials from each town are invited to a meeting today (Thursday) to review the requirements for aid with FEMA and MEMA representatives. The towns must calculate the extra costs for overtime pay for highway crews, as well as additional salt and sand. The towns may be reimbursed for 75 percent of the costs.

Gas explosion levels lodge

PINKHAM NOTCH, N.H.—A leaking propane tank caused an explosion and fire that destroyed the Great Glen Trails lodge at the base of Mt. Washington last week. Rick Eichler, Gorham fire chief, said power had gone out, and when it came back on, it ignited gas that had leaked from a propane tank. The fire started around 5 a.m. Friday and leveled the 50-by-100-foot lodge. GGT offers 40 kilometers of cross-country skiing. All ski equipment was lost, but a groomer for the Nordic and mountain biking center was saved. No one was seriously injured.

N.H. river ice monitored

LANCASTER, N.H.—Local officials are keeping a close watch on the ice in the Israel River in case the conditions should pose a flood threat. The current thick ice conditions are very similar to those in 1970, when a major flood occurred in the downtown area, they said. Property owners along the river are being warned about the flood potential if heavy rains come.

From the Bethel Police Log:

No argument with these gas prices

At 6:54 p.m. on March 23 the Sheriff's Office requested police go to a village gas station. It was reported power was back on and people were helping themselves to gas and driving off, because no one was there to take the money. On arrival the officer found a worker was pumping gas and taking the money until the business could be opened by the manager.

Tuesday, March 20

At 9 p.m. police stopped a subject on Route 26 for having a headlight out. The vehicle was found to be unregistered. Tracy R. Deering, 36, of Rumford Center was given a summons for operating an unregistered vehicle.

Wednesday, March 21

At 10:18 p.m. police investigated a single car rollover on Route 26.

Thursday, March 22

At 4:10 p.m. police assisted with traffic control on Route 26 as vehicles were stuck and could not make it up over Hudson Hill until MDOT could sand. After sanding, traffic resumed.

At 8:15 p.m. the Highway Department advised of a stranded motorist on the Bailey Road. The officer located the owner and the vehicle was moved off the road so the crew could plow.

Saturday, March 24

At 3:28 p.m. police observed a vehicle pull out of the Sunday River Road. The driver failed to observe the stop sign and pulled into oncoming traffic. The officer stopped the vehicle and found the driver's license was suspended in Massachusetts. Kirstan J. Dean, 31, was summonsed for failure to stop and OAS.

Otten

been in the works for some time he said.

"Going back to when we started the merger in August, I have been making plans to take a down role in the company — to not be a CEO. I made that decision because I thought it was the right thing to do for the company. Then, when the merger started falling apart last week (see related story) and by Wednesday or Thursday we knew it was dead, I sat down with myself and made what I felt was a life's decision — either to sign on for another five or ten years doing the same thing, or — now that the staff was in place (and I think the world of B.J. Fair and Herman Martinez and Mark Miller) — do something else. These guys don't need me to stay. And there'd be no way I could do other things with my life."

Otten said he did not know what plans ASC would now have for the employees currently located in Bethel.

"That's something that will be up to B.J. Fair and the rest of the group. Under the Meristar-Doral merger plan, a significant number of folks would have been located in Bethel, but now that's up to (the new management).

"I'm staying," he said. "The bottom line is I care an awful lot about the Bethel community and the state of Maine."

New management

In a release prepared by the company, Steve B. Gruber, board member of the company and a managing partner at Oak Hill Capital Management, Inc. said: "I would like to thank Les Otten for the vision and energy that he brought to the company. He's achieved tremendous success by building this company from a single small ski area in Maine into one of the country's leading operators with nine world-class ski resorts in both the eastern and western United States. The boards and everyone at American Skiing appreciates his substantial accomplishments and wishes him success in his new endeavors."

"B.J. Fair's appointment as chief executive is a natural progression in the company's management structure. B.J. has made significant contributions in driving the business forward in the 12 months that he has been at American Skiing Company," said Gruber. "He brings an exceptional level of experience in both resort management and real estate development to the company. The Board of Directors is confident that American Skiing Company will thrive under B.J.'s leadership and direction."

Fair joined ASC in March 2000 as chief operating officer of the company's resort operations.

The combined company would have had assets totaling more than $1.2 billion, including nine ski resorts, 23 resort hotels, 246 hotels, 15 golf courses and four conference facilities, the companies said.

On Friday, ASC shares soared almost 33 percent, or 37 cents a share, to close at $1.50 on the New York Stock Exchange where Meristar shares closed unchanged at $1.80. ASC shares were trading Wednesday in the $1.65 range.

The last-minute decision by the boards to call off the deal on Thursday meant there was no need for Friday's planned meeting of ASC shareholders at the Sunday River resort. A meeting of Meristar's shareholders scheduled for Monday also was canceled, the companies said.

The deal called for ASC to issue 1.88 shares for each Meristar share and rename the combined company Doral International Inc., with headquarters in Washington, D.C.

When it was announced, former ASC chairman and chief executive Les Otten said the deal would create a "new leader in the year-round leisure business."

It followed what Otten said had been the two worst winters in memory for ASC. Since the company went public three years ago, its stock has tumbled from an initial price of $18 a share.

Bethel

by Virginia Keniston
Daisy LeClair has moved to Woodstock to be with her brother and his wife, Roy and Lois Day.

Lida and Robert Iles of Andover are spending some time in Florida, and recently called on Bobby and Harry Kuzyk.

Abigail Marie Bernier, daughter of Timothy and Allison Davis Bernier and granddaughter of Ted and Linda Davis, was baptized on Sunday at the Congregational Church, with many family members present.

Friends and relatives from out of town who visited Hi and Mary Lou Berry on Lone Pine Road and Norm and Sylvia Clanton in Mayville while in Bethel to attend the funeral and Celebration of the Life of Marjorie Berry Freeman Menzies were: Albert and Judy Freeman Costa and family, Jennifer, Peter and Kalote Joss, Albert and Kelly Costa, Andrea and Ralph and Carina Caruso, Dominic and Amy Costa; Mark Freeman; Gerald Freeman and Susan Freeman; Brian and Lorenda Freeman Dunleavy and family, Karen McQuaid and Brian and Kathi Kingsbury; Cindy Freeman and family, Steven Tibbetts and Joel and Heather Tibbetts; Peggy Needham, Nicole and Jessie Purvis; Bobby Stevens; Sally Bourget; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Elbridge; Steve and Claire Berry Cantrell; Blanche and Richard Hardy; Mike Stevens; and Kay Eames. The family wishes to thank the many friends and neighbors from Bethel who attended the services and gave their support.

Lindley and Pauline Wieden were overnight guests in Skowhegan at Christen and Soren Siren's home to celebrate Sylvia LaFlamme's birthday. Others present were Donald LaFlamme, Lon and Lisa Miller and son Clayton. They attended church in North Vienna and had dinner with the LaFlammes.

Many people turned out for the Bethel Rotary Club breakfast on Sunday at the Gould Academy dining room. It's really a great event to visit with friends and neighbors.

Sheila Douglass is spending her vacation from Shoreline College in Seattle, Wash., at the home of her parents, Dennis and Maryvonne Wheeler. She is studying environmental science. While home, she has spent time with her grandmother, Elsie Douglass, at the Bethel House.

The Cross Country Quilting Group had guests at their meeting last Tuesday morning. Chris Howard, with his aid, Amy, and mother, Terry Howard, enjoyed the Show and Tell on Career Week at the Bethel Library. Chris is designing quilt squares on his computer and planning the colors that his mother will make up and present to a needy person.

We had a real snowstorm, as predicted — 18 inches. The heavy, wet snow caused power outages throughout the area (14 hours in town).

The Bethel House

by Ruth Cummings
Well at last the ice and snow has been removed from the roof at the Bethel House. Some just fell off, but Doug and Roger worked hard to get the rest off. It is just our good luck that the roof did not cave in or someone badly hurt, or a lot of damage done before it started falling off and Doug got the job to start on it. A lot of ice and snow went in under the upstairs porch, and for a time residents in those apartments downstairs could not get out their doors on that side. Every other winter the snow would have been shoveled several times from the roof in winter, and only one winter had more snow for the entire winter than it has so far this one. Doug has got some snow off once but could not get the go-ahead to do more. We finally got the manager up here and Lindley showed her the ice and snow that had come off and all that was ready to fall. Liz said she did not realize it was so bad. I told her that if she returned the calls when we left a message for her on voice mail she would. Also, I had contacted the maintenance manager, and he was up and said there was no need of having the roof shoveled. This was a while ago. A bucket loader was used to remove some of the snow that had been shoveled from and fallen off the roof.

Nancy Cummings and friend, Holly, were at Sunday River Cross Country Ski Center skiing on Friday afternoon. Nana Wight brought me more cancelled stamps when she was on her way to work on Friday. Thank you, Nana. My church will use them for missionaries. The citizen is mailed to folks in 36 different states. It would be interesting to know in just how many of those states that the people read my column. Maybe yes and maybe no. One lady told me she takes The Citizen, reads my column and the ads and no more of the paper. So, maybe there are many that skip my column.

me a very interesting book to read. The winter we had so much snow, '68 and '69, 193 inches, we did not have a flood. This year, however, there is ice already jammed in the river, so we could have a flood, especially if we have a lot of rain. Let us all start praying we will not have a flood.

"One gentle word that we may speak or one kind loving deed, May though a trifle poor and weak prove like a tiny seed, And who can tell what good may spring from such a very little thing?"

Treat your friends kindly. If it were not for them you would be a total stranger."

Josie Lougee and daughter, Marjorie, visited with Rebecca Ricker on Saturday and then they went for a ride in Jose's new car. It is a VIP. They went to Ames, Wal-Mart and Jungle shopping and had dinner at Kentucky Fried Chicken. Becky said she saw her friend, Clara Whitman, at Wal-Mart.

Cathy Newell and I went to Wal-Mart Sunday afternoon.

Ben Conant was guest speaker at the Bethel Alliance Church on March 18 and will be back again on the 25th. He always has a fine sermon.

So glad that you enjoy my column, Ben.

Where are you, Bob and Beverly? Maybe you went to Florida.

A friend of mine said that he would like to see more Newbury news. So would I. How about it folks, you must do something exciting. How about calling Gil so we can know what you are up to these days.

How many of you remember the long-handled things they used years ago when taking up collections in church. One could reach the whole row of seats.

I am grateful for all of you folks that make it possible for me to go to church.

Pastor Rick and Peggy are on vacation in Florida.

Drew and Judy Webster visited me on Tuesday and brought me some oatmeal bread and some things like doughnut holes, but they were not. They were very strong of cinnamon and real white inside. They sure were delicious.

The Rev. and Mrs. David Larson of Center Lovell have been coming to Bethel Alliance for many weeks now. Rev. Larson was at one time our pastor but is retired now.

Lennie and Cathy Hoy are also coming to Bethel Alliance, and Cathy often plays the piano. We have other newcomers, too.

Janice Hill spent Tuesday night in Andover with her sister and husband, the Clemens.

"A secret is something you tell to one person at a time."

"The chicken is the only animal we can eat before it is born and after it is dead."

"Maine is the only state whose name is one syllable in length."

"Canada is an Indian word meaning big village."

"You are over the hill when you realize a stamp costs more today than a picture show when you were a kid."

Sunday River Valley

by Rockie Graham
Snow falls wet and heavy on this warm spring morning/Trees groan under the weight/Branches break and fall out onto a white wet blanket/Cars cruise at unsafe speeds/Hoping heedlessly to escape roadside ditches/Electricity crashes to a halt/Then even telephone wires succumb/All is quiet save for the sounds of snowplows/Encroaching on bulging banks of wet white snow.

It is spring at last and, of course, it was blessed by receiving the worst snowstorm of the season. It was wet, it was heavy, and it still surrounds everything. At present, my windows, in places, are three-quarters blocked. As the roof clears itself of the white stuff, the driveway receives pile after pile, usually right after I've finished clearing it. No matter, life went on without electricity and without the telephone. I was lucky because I have wood heat and had heat and warmth, and could cook. I was out of practice using kerosene lamps and candles, but I was fine. Others were not so lucky. Oddly, I missed the telephone the most, even though I hate the instrument. Oh well, this is winter in Maine.

I wanted to say a quick thank you to all of you who have told me how they enjoy my column. That is music to a writer's ear. It is always nice to know that someone is reading what you write.

This weekend I was pleased to attend an Innana concert up at the Summit. They are a female drumming group and play mostly African music. They were quite good and fun to dance with. The turnout was disappointing, but then everyone had just dealt with days of no power (some still were without), and many were tired from shoveling that heavy, heavy snow. I know I was, but I only had to travel a mile and friend Marsea picked me up. Who could ask for more.

During the storm, I noticed troops of walkers traveling with characteristic clear plastic bags wrapped around them. It struck me as amusing because it was snowing not raining, but they were having a great time, and they loved Tasha. I have no complaints. If they couldn't ski, they at least wanted to do something outside. Good for them.

I visited up at the Harrington farm this weekend and got to see Peggy and Estelle. Haven't seen them for quite some time. All seemed well and had weathered the storm just fine. They, too, had a woodstove to keep them warm. I also spied chickens in the driveway that didn't want to move to let me pass.

Lately, there have been fire trucks going up and down the road. Cars with firefighter plates traveling at high speed, also. I haven't seen anything about a fire at Jordan, but it was either that or another one of those races. It is amazing what I miss by not having a scanner. Someday I may break down and get one.

The Bethel Area Poets Society reading was postponed until tonight, the 29th at 7 P.M. at Café DiCocoa. I hope everyone who was planning to come last week comes. It should be fun and I think the Rumford group will come, too.

That is all for now, my fingers are getting cold and it is time to feed the fire. Have a good week. Enjoy the lengthening days and the bright sun when it shines.

Millie and Dana Jackson were in Unity on March 17 to visit Bill and Deborah Eldredge for lunch.

Florence Hastings spent March 24 and 25 with Dave and Ann Morton in Bryant Pond. They had power while we didn't.

Eric Hastings and his two sons from Massachusetts visited Sonny and Bettyann Hastings on March 24 and 25.

Everyone in this end of town is now ready for the snow to go — enough already. I know I am, as this wet, heavy stuff bent my TV antenna right over to the roof. Think spring.

Mason Township

by Richard Grover
Last week turned out to be emotional for me. On Wednesday, I flew to Denver, Colo., to spend a few days with my son, Dean, and his family. Dean had been having some health concerns, and I wanted to see how he was doing and offer some moral support to both him and his family. He used some of his frequent flyer miles to get me a free ticket on United Airlines, the only stipulation being that I pay for a rental car for him if he is able to come to Maine with his family this summer.

Mona volunteered to stay home and tend the animals and chickens. As it turned out, I moved my departure ahead from Thursday to Wednesday in order to get ahead of the storm predicted for Thursday.

As you know, Mason got hit with some 20 inches of snow on Thursday night and Friday morning, accompanied by the loss of electric power.

Come Friday morning, I had a message from Mona waiting for me when I returned from an early morning walk at Dean's home in Colorado. She was without power, water for the cows and power to start her snowblower. I then told her how to start the generator and to plug the water pump and other appliances into the special circuit I had installed for just such an occasion.

I soon got another call, wanting to know how to start the Kubota tractor, which was blocking access to the generator. Shortly after that, Mona's daughter, Jane and Craig Ryerson arrived, and Craig used the Kubota to clear the driveway, so Mona could get out when she needed to.

At about noon Friday, Dean was running a high fever and decided he needed to go to the hospital. Sam (Dean's wife, Samantha) drove the family van with the whole family to the University of Colorado Hospital in Denver. Dean was admitted, and then I had two worries; how Mona was doing without electricity in Mason, and how Dean was doing in the hospital. Turns out, Mona got along pretty well with the help of the generator, and the doctors found out Dean had a strep infection in his abdomen area. We brought Dean home on Sunday afternoon, and I flew home to Mason on Monday.

My flight from Portland to Denver took me via Dulles Airport near Washington D.C. I had only 30 minutes from scheduled arrival to departure at Dulles. The plane from Portland taxied into Concourse "A" about 10 minutes behind schedule, and my departure was to be from Concourse "B." This required a tram ride. I hurried to the tram loading doors and waited anxiously for the tram to arrive. When it finally did, I was surprised by the design. The tram was a "two-headed" bus, with loading doors and a driver's position at both ends. At Concourse "A" one end of the tram bumps up against the loading dock. After loading, the driver moves to the other end and drives straight across the United Airlines parking ramp and to the loading dock at Concourse "C." This design eliminates the need to turn the tram around amid taxiing aircraft, and I had never seen one like it.

Hanover

by Clem Worcester
A grand celebration is in order. A marriage took place in town on Saturday, Howie, that world-famous rooster from Howard Pond, who now lives at Plumbago Mountain Farm, met Penny, an attractive lady from Laurie's Lane. Officiating was Laurie Beaudoin, who remarked that Penny didn't get along with her other hens anyway.

Birthday greetings this week go to Brian Worcester. Brian says he is doing all right.

Get well wishes are extended to Craig Turner; Craig is in a Portland hospital after becoming ill at work.

The snow began around noon on Thursday just as the TV weatherman said it would. Wet, heavy snow quickly accumulated on roads, roofs, trees and wires. Electric power flickered off and on most of Thursday night and finally went out completely at 4:45 Friday morning. The snow continued almost all day. By the middle of the afternoon telephone service to Hanover failed.

Several hours before it stopped snowing, 24 inches were measured at Howard Pond, while at lower elevations 16 to 18 inches were reported. Broken trees and branches were to be found everywhere and numerous plow trucks broke from pushing the heavy snow.

Telephone service was restored Friday evening only to fail again during the night. On Saturday morning, the phones were again operating. Electric service for homes along Main Street was returned Friday evening, while some others got it back during the night, and by 4:30 p.m. on Saturday almost every home had power returned. A little sun and warmer temperatures Saturday helped to melt our roads and driveways.

Gardner Roberts Memorial Library will celebrate 100 years of service to Hanover and the area this year. Located on Howard Pond Road, the building was originally used as the post office. The Library Association consists of area women who volunteer their services to operate the library and maintain the building. The library is open one day a week in the summer. Hopefully, the community will help the Library Association celebrate its centennial anniversary.

The future of Gardner Roberts Memorial Library may be more of a historical nature. Hanover contracts with the Rumford Library for use by Hanover citizens.

A giant rooster has come to Hanover. He is hiding in plain sight. Can you find him?

Andover

by Joan Stinson Carney
I would like to express my condolences to the families of Merton Perkins and Cecil

"Toot" Abbott. It's odd sometimes the way I think. When I was growing up in Andover, people older than I were just that, people — my friends' parents, my teachers, whoever. After a 30-year hiatus, I returned to Andover, and the older people somehow took on personalities that I had missed growing up. Two of the people that I came to know and love were Merton and Toot. I'd see them around town, in the All Seasons' or in the town office, and they were always glad to see me, always asked after my parents, showed their concern about my father. They were always there ready to do whatever they could for their neighbors, for the town. I feel like two of the solid bricks that this town was built on are gone, leaving a hole that can never be filled. I will miss them, the whole town will. Rest in peace gentlemen, and say "hi" to my father for me.

This week's birthday people include Kelly Scotti and Robin Kerschner on March 31, Meghan Wardwell and Hanna Nickerson on April 1, Ken Learned on the 2nd, Erica Blood and Foster Davis on the 4th and Randy Morin on the 5th. Happy Birthday everybody.

On Sunday, April Fool's Day, daylight savings begins. I'm going to keep track of all the daylight I save this year. Can't seem to save any money, so I might as well save something. Don't forget "Spring forward — Fall back." See, I've

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published here by special arrangement with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

Another birthday has come and gone and I'll be honest with you; I didn't much care for this one.

Oh, it was a very nice birthday as far as its being recognized by my loved ones. The family observed it with gifts, cards and lots of hugs and several friends passed on their best wishes of the day. The birthday itself was actually better than some I've experienced. No, it's not the birthday, it's the number of this one that I have a problem with.

I'm not sure why I'm having a problem with this particular age. It's not even a landmark number. I remember having a hard time turning 30, I think most women do. That's the cut-off point between girl and woman. It is also the point where you can no longer blame your mistakes on youth and inexperience. At 30 you have to take responsibility.

So I took responsibility and I got over being 30 and breezed right through 35, 40, 45 and I even handled 50 pretty well. But now in my 53rd year I'm having an aging crisis. I can no longer deny the "mature woman" syndrome. This is when I start buying underwear and shoes with comfort as the only criteria. For God's sake, I'm on the downhill side of the Half Century Club.

The worst horror of all is that I've have reached the "for her age" age. You know, "She's in pretty good shape - for her age." "She has a quick mind - for her age." "She writes pretty well - for her age."

You know, I can still remember at the ripe old age of 9 or 10, reciting the multiplication table for my Aunt Agnes who was visiting from Portland or as we used to say "Come up from Portland for the day." Anyway, I remember beaming with pride when she told the rest of the family how bright I was - for my age. The implication of course being that I was much smarter than I should have been for 9 or 10 years old.

Now I've reached that point where once again my accomplishments will be punctuated by my age and the implication will still be that I'm probably smarter than I should be at this stage of my life.

Another birthday has come and gone...

I think birthdays have a much different effect on men than they do on women. For one thing, they seem to age more gracefully. Maybe it's because they haven't spent any time altering their looks with make-up and hair-dos. They just seem to slide from one year into the next gaining character lines where women get wrinkles. I could also say something about how they never had to give birth or work quite as hard as women, but I'm not going to get into that. I'll just leave it that men age more gracefully than women.

I don't think men feel the same way as women do about their birthdays in general. Women are very sentimental about their special day even though they may not want the number acknowledged. I think a woman always wants her birthday recognized.

For me, to have someone remember my birthday means I'm special to that person even though I have been dropping hints for two weeks.

Men don't seem to care if anyone remembers their birthday or not. I know I criticize them for not remembering special days like anniversaries and birthdays of their sweeties, but heck, they don't even remember their own birthday most of the time. It just isn't that big of a deal.

That's not the way it used to be however. The celebration of an individual's birthday was started by the Egyptians at about 3000 B.C., but was only observed by the men. Women and children were not considered good enough or noble enough to have their birthdays acknowledged. I suppose the good news was that the Egyptian women were ageless and never had to suffer the humiliation of the Big 4-0 birthday bash with the black balloons and Over the Hill banners. I suspect that there were other forms of humiliation for women in a society that didn't recognize their births.

The Greeks and the Romans followed the Egyptians in the "for men only" celebrations of birthdays. In fact, it was the Romans that started the tradition of declaring a holiday to commemorate the birthdays of noted politicians. The problem was that all Roman politicians thought they were noted enough to declare their birthday a holiday. So there was a Roman holiday just about every day.

Then along came Cleopatra who was not about to let the men get away with not acknowledging her birthday. She was probably the first woman to throw a royal fit if anyone forgot her birthday, however mention of her age was never allowed and could lead to the death of the loose-lipped fool. Boy have we come a long way!

The way I see it, if birthday celebrations were good enough for Cleopatra, they're good enough for me. Therefore I am not going to worry about wrinkles, I am not going to worry about sags and bags and I'm not going to worry about any more birthdays. That's a pretty good attitude to take - for a woman my age.

lost an hour already. Got an interesting letter from some former residents of Andover, Polly and Dick Johnston. It seems they live in the state of Washington and were "all shook up" recently. They weren't home at the time of the quake and didn't know about it until they arrived at a travel agency, to buy tickets for Alaska. Good idea at the time, seems to me. After getting over the shock, they were relieved to find minimal damage at their home. Their daughters, Joye and Melanie, were lucky, too, only some broken dishes to contend with. I really appreciate people from "away" that send me letters. Thanks, Polly and Dick.

I am truly proud to announce the following — a couple of weeks ago in Warwick, R.I., my cousin, Steve Simmons, received an award for his "Exemplary abilities and performance in the field of youth work." Steve works at the Rumford Group Home and was honored by the New England Association of Social Services. My hat goes off to anybody who can cope with this kind of work and really do a good job at it. Steve, it seems, does both very well. Congratulations, Steve. Did I mention that he's my cousin?

Again, I want to remind all of Andover's high school seniors who are planning on attending college or a trade school in the fall that the time limit on submitting their letter to be in the running for a $100 scholarship from the Andover Service Circle is May 1. Send a description of your educational plans to Andover Service Circle, 187 East Andover Road, East Andover, ME 04226, ASAP.

If you need legal help, and for some reason can't get out of Andover to get it, Andover residents, Michael Steven and Janet Meisner, will be more than happy to arrange to see you at your home. For more information, call Mike at 392-1098 or Janet at 392-2588, or you can also reach them at 824-2588.

North Newry

by Gil Seeley
Family and friends helped Mandy Berry celebrate her 20th birthday on March 25 at the home of her grandparents, John and Nancy Wight. Her mother, Retta Berry, and Aunt Bozzy had to buy the birthday cakes, as Newry was out of power for a few days due to the snowstorm.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte
It's only nine months to Christmas you know. If we keep all this snow we will have a very white Christmas.

Last week's storms occurred while we were ensconced at St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands, with temperatures of 80 degrees and higher and a beautiful cool breeze flowing over us.

We were guests of "C.J." and Barbara Stratton. I must have been dreaming because in one week we spent every hour of the waking day pursuing the local color. Magens Bay was the best swimming hole and we spent many hours soaked in her wonderful waters. Snorkeling, swimming and even attending a beach wedding up to our necks in the blue water was nothing but unreal. It was so different from our usual habitat that we were in a constant state of "something new."

One day we took the ferry to St.

John's Island to visit with the Harris family of Mill Road in Upton. Anita and Bill Harris have a winter residence that was purchased at the best time, a number of years ago. It sits on the side of a cliff overlooking the Caribbean. I must have dreamed it, because it was so beautiful. The hospitality of the Harris's will be long remembered.

Above Bill and Anita's tropical hideaway, Sue and Mike Sullivan have a villa named Casanita. Bill and Anita were staying at this home with guests, Dean and Barbara from New York. A delightful tropical lunch of native fruits and salad was served. The landscape around the two dwellings was planted with huge agave cacti, bougainvillea and other tropical plantings. While Richard was peering over the deck he spotted two wild goats, two wild donkeys and a mongoose. (And we think our deer are so great.)

Barbara and Clyde Stratton entertained us at their condo overlooking Charlotte Amalie Harbor. The sunsets were great, but Lake Umbagog's are still number one.

While we were basking in tropical splendor, Upton was dumped upon with 19 inches of snow, on top of the 36 inches already standing. "guilt-guilt-guilt." The Upton team did an outstanding job of dealing with this spring weather disaster. Earl Lagesse took 25 hours straight to cope with the everlasting downfall of the white stuff. While pursuing his road commissioner's duties at the height of the storm he fell, injuring his ribs and shoulder. Richard Angevine had provided him with a "cell phone" to reach him in case of an emergency. Earl was unable to reach the phone but was finally able to get home under his own power. Many thanks to a very devoted town employee.

When we arrived home, our driveway and a path to the deer feeding area were cleared out, thanks to Gene Wixom. When the power was lost, Roger Lavallee started our generator, making sure that there was heat in the house, averting frozen pipes. Larry and Sue Nelson came by snowmobile, every day across the lake to feed the deer, who were having a desperate time trying to find a feeding area. Sue chopped apples and Larry lugged grain to the lake's edge. Many thanks to these people for the many tasks they performed in a time of crisis without being requested. One drive down Mill Road gives a picture of overwhelming snowfall. Many thanks to all mentioned and others who assisted.

Good news. I saw a redwing blackbird on Route 26. Spring must be on the way. It should be here by April 15. The "Bird of the Week" is the redwing blackbird, a true harbinger of spring in Upton.

The "Bird of the Week" in St. Thomas was a black hummingbird with a crest on his crown. I don't know his name, yet, but he was a reminder that our ruby throats will be here in about a month and a half.

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan
The calendar tells us it's spring. When I look at the amount of snow I can't believe it. However, it is more time for the peepers' theme song of April. Spring's urgency and exhilaration, which quickens the human heart with gladness to be alive.

Spring is a season of proof that life still exists even if there are volcanoes, earthquakes and human uprisings. A farmer is close to the land and grows up to live all his life. It shapes his way of thinking and becomes a part of him. He is a member of the minority group. He may change any time he wishes. He stops at times to look at the world of human progress and culture and satisfaction we call happiness.

Winter is more than snow, ice-bound rivers and winds whooping down from the Arctic. It's primitive forces at work, cleaning the earth. It also is beautiful and awesome and full of wonder. It ends the year and makes it whole. At the same time it takes the edge off human arrogance.

I had a letter from my neighbors in Florida saying they will be home soon.

The pond has many roads, made by snowmobiles. The rides look like fun, but I always wonder if the ice is safe over the channel in the pond.

Wednesday evening, at 6:30 p.m., is Prayer Meeting and Patch the Pirate Club at the Baptist Church. Patch the Pirate Club is for children of all ages. There are many different activities. Sunday: Sunday School and Adult Bible Fellowship at 9:30 a.m., Morning Worship at 10:30 a.m., choir practice at 4:45 p.m. and Evening Service at 6 p.m. Spring Bible Conference, with Dr. Wendell Heller, is April 1 to 4 at 6:30 p.m. On Monday, April 2, there will be a fellowship dinner at 5:30 p.m. On Wednesday morning at 10, there will be a ladies' tea.

The Whitman Memorial Library's new hours are Tuesday and Thursday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Wednesday and Friday, 12 to 4 p.m. They would love to have you visit them. They have just received some new books: "The Brethren" by John Gusham, "Code to Zero" by Ken Follett, "The Klone and I" by Danielle Steel, "Kate Hannigan's Girl" by Catherine Cookson, "Drowning Ruth" by Christine Schwary, "The Rescue" by Nicholas Sparks, six History Mysteries that are American Girl, "Win the Fat War" by Ann Alexander, "She said Yes" by Misty Bernal, "Blizzard" by Jim Murphy, "Paradise County" by Karen Robards, "A Painted House" by John Grisham, "Rise in the Morning" by Sandra Brown, "From the Corner of His Eye" by Dean Koontz, "Lost and Found" by Jayne Ann Krentz, "The Guide to Essential Prescription Drugs 2001."

Franklin Grange 124 met for a 6 p.m. supper and meeting on Monday, March 19, with 19 members present. It was voted to let the Senior Citizens use the hall on April 5, and to put on the dinner for the Senior Citizens on May 3. The April 2 meeting will be a Community Service meeting and the public is invited to attend. The program was as follows: opening thought, Most of what you see is what you are looking for" by Bertha DeHaas; song by all, "My Wild Irish Rose"; reading on St. Patrick's Day, George Gibbs; Laura Hutchins sang an Irish song; another reading on St. Patrick's Day, Connie Tullis; St. Patrick's Day quiz by Bertha DeHaas; mystery march; "Abide with Me"; closing song; closing thought, "To save a dollar start with a penny, to save the Grange start with yourself. Pomona Grange will meet at Franklin Grange on April 3.

Semi-public installation of Jefferson Chapter 89, O.E.S. will be held on April 7 at 10 a.m., with luncheon following. Susan Glines and Bill Roberts Jr. will be installed as worthy matron and patron.

The Woodstock Extension met at the Town Annex on Wednesday, March 21, with seven members present. Rabbits and angels were made from holders, dishcloths or washcloths and hand towels. The next meeting will be in April with Wendy Legg Pollock as speaker.

Elsie Bonney, from the Historical Society, is trying to get "Hamlin's Gore" published as soon as possible.

Did you see the great article Kathleen Bean did on Birchmere for the Sun? It really did the Historical Society proud. Besides Birchmere, Woodstock boasts a very distinguished Dreamhome, now on the National Register. Supposedly, Mr. Ellery's wife saw it in a dream and he built it for her, or so the story goes. The museum has a coffeepot from a huge service they had at Dreamhome, and a large brochure on the property. The museum has wonderful collections. They encourage you to learn about antiques. The museum is virtually complete and its collections are varied and sizable and its library is respectable and more than adequate for a small town. The exhibits are well catalogued. A small museum shop offers a few souvenirs and books produced by the Society. Meetings are held on the premises so those attending can see everything the Society offers.

Curator Larry Billings has finished rereading "Wuthering Heights," a very dramatic novel. He also read the book of Hebrews, equally dramatic and reread the book of James. He tries to read from the Bible daily, as many Christians do. He is looking forward to Easter, his favorite holiday because of its religious significance. Christianity has since become possibly the chief source of inspiration for Western Civilization. Art and architecture were certainly influential by it as were literature and classical music. Curator Billings has done a tape about his work with the Historical Society for his mother's Oral History Project. You can listen to it at the museum this next summer.

Our daughter, Kellie Record, who is on vacation in Florida, called to wish us a happy anniversary on March 20. Our son, Rick Wing, called us from Bridgton to wish us a happy one, also.

Tommy Poland is back from her two-week trip to Florida. She came back to the big snowstorm last week. I haven't gotten the details of her trip yet but am anxious to hear all about it.

What a snowstorm. I hope it will stop snowing soon so we'll have a real spring and summer. After all this mess we deserve it.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society, reports that the Society values your interest and support. People in Woodstock seem to appreciate what we try to do. Much thanks. The museum has multi-volume sets of books by New England authors. The Society is a source of pride for its members. They have all contributed to its success.

Curator Billings has finished rereading "Wuthering Heights." He has also donated to the museum two prints, two tins, a cast iron

CELTIC MUSIC AT GOULD

The Irish traditional band, "Altan," called by the Boston Globe "the hottest group in the Celtic realm these days," will present a concert at Gould Academy's Bingham Auditorium on Thursday, April 5. The band, founded by fiddler and lead singer Mairead Ni Mhaonaigh and her late husband, Belfast flute-player Frankie Kennedy, originated nearly two decades ago in the kitchens and pubs of Ireland's County Donegal. They have toured extensively around the world performing an invigorating mix of traditional and contemporary music that ranges from romantic ballads to hard-hitting reels and jigs, and have gained overwhelming popularity and critical acclaim. The concert at Gould Academy, part of the school's visiting performing artists series, begins at 7:30 p.m. and is open to the public. Tickets are $6 for adults and $4 for students, and are available at the door.

horse and wagon, a clock decorated with a couple on a swing, a cobalt blue globe, a silver vegetable dish, an art deco vase and a rare crystal piece.

Not much news this week, will try to get going better next week.

Happy spring. It truly does not seem possible that it is March 26 already, 42 degrees outside, sunny, breezy, and a beautiful flock of purple finches, chickadees and juncos all busily occupied at the five feeders out on the front porch. How I do enjoy their beautiful songs as they flit around from feeder to feeder. Had a pair of cardinals out there at 7 a.m. How beautiful they are.

West Paris Baptist Church hosted a Gospel Bluegrass Concert on Saturday, March 24, at the church followed by refreshments downstairs afterward. It was well attended and much enjoyed. On Sunday morning, both North Paris Federated and West Paris Baptist churches were honored to have Mike and Sue Haney, Rose and Naomi White and Lisa McKillop speak on their upcoming missionary pilgrimage this summer to Thailand.

West Paris Grange 298 is starting off their spring-summer activities with a Public Supper on the evening of Saturday, April 5, from 5 to 6:30. The cost will be $5 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12. On until I do a lot of shoveling. The back walk is at least four feet deep. The front doors are banked up with five or six feet of wet, heavy stuff. Frank Perham did get in with his plow, so the drive is clear for a short time. About four more inches are promised for today. There is very little space on the lawn to push much more. Hopefully, real spring and warm weather will come before we all become prisoners in our own houses. The pantry is well stocked—I will not starve.

Spring. More snow and more snow. Friday morning, and I cannot get out of the house

Two more snow days to be made up at the Oxford Hills schools. The TV has been running cancellations all day, when the cable is working. The radio stations have kept us informed around the clock. As yet, there is no danger of flooding here in Oxford County, but just wait until all this melts.

Let's hope the Grange supper, planned for April 7, will be a good no-snow day. The supper will be at 5 p.m., with casseroles, beans, salads, desserts and beverages at the Grange Hall. Adult tickets are $5 and children under 12 get in for $2.50.

On April 1, the West Paris Universalist Church service will be led by the minister, the Rev. Joy Gasta. Her topic will be "Serious Lessons from Playing the Fool," as it is April Fool's Day. The organist is Susan Glines. Don't forget to turn your clocks ahead one hour or you'll miss the service. Spring ahead.

Questing Elders met at the home of Joyce Lamb on Wednesday with the Rev. Joy Gasta. The topic of discussion was "Spring." A bit premature. The next meeting will be on April 18 at the home of Lee Dean.

I have had several cards from the Florida people. They are bragging about the sunny weather but are complaining about the heat. All seem to be content to stay south rather than battle the snow. That is a basic reason to be there, I think. It will take a few more weeks for it to melt and a month or more for the mud to dry up. They had better stay where they are.

The craft group did not meet this week because of the snowstorm, but will meet next Thursday at 1 p.m. with June Demarest, to continue making baby quilts.

Buffy did enjoy the crusty snow and sunshine and took long walks for a few days, but has again become completely housebound. If he were out today, the heavy, wet snow would cover his tummy with snowballs. It takes a while for him to pull them all off. He is very fastidious.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

Hi readers. I'll try to get this column done even though there's not too much to write about. It's storming hard out now and the power went off for two hours, so didn't get this done and to the post office. That serves me right for not doing it yesterday.

Anyway, yesterday five of us from the East Stoneham Congregational Church met at the home of Mary Grover for a regular meeting. Sharon McAllister opened the meeting and the secretary and treasurer's reports were read, discussed and accepted. Lilies have been ordered for Easter. By the way, Easter sunrise services will be held at 6 a.m. at Keoka Lake, by Dr. Hubbard's, on Sunday morning, April 15. This is at Waterford Flat.

Breakfast will be served at North Waterford Congregational Church vestry following sunrise service. Regular church service at 10 a.m. will be at East Stoneham Congregational Church. Services for the rest of April will be at East Stoneham. Maundy Thursday, April 12, will be 5 p.m. at North Waterford.

The meeting closed, and the next one will be at Stoneham Church vestry on May 16.

I believe the Mother-Daughter Banquet, which is now called Family Banquet, will be held this year at Camp Susan Curtis. This is to benefit children going to summer camp at Pilgrim Lodge and Camp Susan Curtis. I'll give you more details on that later.

Also, the summer public supper dates are in. They are as follows: June 21, July 19, Aug 16 (the popular turkey supper), Sept. 6, and the harvest supper is Oct. 11. If there are any changes on these dates, I will let you know.

The March meeting of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Hannah F. Richardson Tent 19, was canceled this month on account of the snowstorm and bad traveling. The next one is planned for April 12.

Junior Achievement

Junior Achievement (JA) of the Bethel area held a strategic planning luncheon meeting Thursday, March 22, at the Sudbury Inn. Preston Jump, facilitator, branch development director for JA of Maine said, "Bethel really distinguished itself in the high level of community support for the Junior Achievement program in its first year. The momentum established means that a very high percentage of area students will soon be learning about business, economics and free enterprise."

JA classes were held in all SAD44 fifth grades last fall. Currently, all third-graders are learning about economics through "Our City" program. The spring segment includes "Our Families" for all first grades, and "Our World" is being introduced at Telstar Middle School. This year, a total of 319 students will learn to value free enterprise, business and economics to improve the quality of their lives.

Robin Mills, chair, JA Advisory

Council, added that JA has the continuing support of school leadership including Superintendent Kent Rosberg, and Principal David Murphy. She reported that Mary Merrill, social studies coordinator, commented on the school's excellent feedback from both teachers and students. Merrill related that as the program continues to grow, teachers expect the school will be better able to meet the economic strands of Maine's learning results. Teachers are also hopeful that classes can be expanded to include grades two and four next year.

In addition to Mills, JA Advisory Council members present included Theresa Estes, Eileen Meisner and Rosabelle Tift. Business leaders present included Sara Roderick, Key Bank; Don Murphy, code enforcement officer/planner, Town of Bethel; Al Barth, Bethel selectman; Robin Zinchuk, executive director, Chamber of Commerce; Barry Estes, Chamber of Commerce Education Committee; and Scott Mills, American Ski Company. Both Roderick and Murphy are serving as volunteer consultants in the third-grade classes thus adding their personal perspective on its value.

In discussion that followed, Zinchuk said, "People see Bethel as an education center." Advisory Council members present said their experience with business leaders has borne this out. The quality of life in Bethel is high and businesses are eager to help with funding and volunteer consultants for JA.

Mills said people who experienced Junior Achievement during their school years were especially receptive to the program. JA is taught nationwide and many Bethel newcomers may be aware of JA. Mills would like to hear from these people in hopes of meeting with them. She said anyone in the community interested in learning more about JA may log on to the national Web site, JA.org.

Goals for the next year to be set by the JA Advisory Council include: 1) establish the number of classes to pursue for each of the next four years; 2) determine the amount of funding needed; 3) recruit and train the appropriate number of volunteer consultants; 4) explore other innovative programs in order to reach more students.

Discussion about the importance of JA's contribution to Maine's learning results was cited as a definite selling point. Barth, well-versed on this topic, commented that he was "pleased to see that JA has shown schools how their program can reinforce the learning results, thus supporting schools financially as well as in meeting the school's obligation to meet the standards of the learning results."

For further information about JA activities, call Mills at 824-3768 or 824-2669, or e-mail at rrmills@megalink.net.

ROCKET SCIENTISTS
Clayton Smith and T.J. Savage tied for third place for eighth-graders in the Telstar Middle School Science Fair Monday. Their project, "Soda Rocket," investigated the effect of heating full, upside-down cans of Pepsi with a blow torch. The result: The tabs or bottoms of several cans blew out, sending them up to 30 feet in the air. The boys wore welding masks and plastic bags to protect themselves during the experiment. Other winners: Eighth grade, 1. Lorenzo Baker; 2. August Reiss, Josh Longway; 3. Ross Parker, Andrew Raymond; 4. Frank Emerson. Seventh grade: 1. Denise Howard-Corrin; 2. Kyle Kuvaja; 3. Dan Zicarelli; 4. Cindy Farrington; 5. Jillian Kimball. Sixth grade: 1. Lauren McAllister; 1. Dyana Dyke; 2. Morgan Carver; 2. Kevin Wight; 3. Kara Thurlow. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

Over forty years ago, on June 27, 1960, a KC 97 plane from Plattsburg, NY exploded and crashed on a mountainside in Newry. The plane was about to refuel a B47 jet when it caught fire followed by an explosion. Five men lost their lives in the accident: Lt. William F. Burgess, Indian Lake, N.Y.; Lt. Lewis F. Turner, Spokane, Wash.; 2nd Lt. Raymond S. Kisonis, Waterbury, Conn.; Master Sgt. Harold E. Young, Selma, Ala.; T. Sgt. Robert B. Costello, Greenfield, Ill. Fragments of wreckage were found in Hanover and Rumford Corner Village. The light of the explosion and fire were noticed at points as far away as Lewiston, Bridgton, and Berlin, NH. The crash scene was on Jonathan Smith Mountain in the area known as "Jonty's Ledge," not far from the home of Warren Powers. The crash caused a fire that burned over two acres.

Notes from

SAD44 Adult Ed

Spring Adult Education classes will begin the week of April 23, with the course brochure expected to be mailed the first week of April to all postal patrons in SAD44 and surrounding towns.

Summer course guides, plus an advanced listing of fall University of Maine system classes available at Telstar High School, may be obtained in the Adult Education office. The first summer term begins the week of May 14. Sherry Gaudin of the University of Maine's Rumford/Mexico Center will be making appointments to meet with individuals interested in registration for summer or fall courses. She may be reached at (800) 696-1103.

From the

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

Do you have an employee that you think should receive recognition for his/her excellent work ethic and dedication? If so, we encourage you to submit his or her name for one of the Employee of the Year awards the Chamber presents at our Annual Awards Dinner, scheduled for Friday, May 4, at the Grand Summit Hotel. The deadline for nominations is quickly approaching — Monday, April 2. Please submit nominations to Awards Committee, c/o Bethel Area Chamber, P.O. Box 1247, Bethel, ME 04217. We are also receiving nominations for the community awards: The Henry H. Hastings Award for Citizenship, the Lifetime Achievement Award, the Forest Products Award, the Public Service Award (for someone who works for our towns, fire departments, rescue service, etc.) and the Business of the Year Award.

All are invited to our upcoming monthly Community Networking Breakfast, scheduled for Wednesday, April 11 from 7:30 to 9 a.m. We have invited a representative from the Maine Oil Dealers Assoc. to speak on the recent winter heating season, to discuss the dynamics that we are dealing with here in Maine that influence the price we pay for energy sources; and offering suggestions to look ahead. The location for the breakfast will be announced in next week's Bethel Citizen, or give us a call at the Chamber office, 824-2282. We appreciate an RSVP by the day before, which is Tuesday, April 10.

MERTON W. PERKINS

Merton W. Perkins, 82, of Elm Street, Andover, died Tuesday, March 20, 2001, on Route 2 in Rumford as a result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident.

Born in Rumford on July 3, 1918, the son of Vard and Etta (Glover) Perkins, he had lived in the area all his life.

Mr. Perkins attended Andover schools and was a private in the U.S. Army during World War II with Company C Infantry.

He was a truck driver for Farrington's Lumber Mill in East Andover for many years, until his retirement.

Mr. Perkins was a member of the Greater Rumford Senior Citizens and the Neighborly Senior Citizens Club and the Andover Congregational Church. For many years he served as treasurer and board member of Western Maine Transportation, was a member of Napoleon Ouellette Post 24, American Legion and a life member of the Al and Ted Gauthier Chapter 21 DAV. He was formerly active with local chapters of the American Red Cross, was a past board member of Western Area Agency on Aging and was a member of Chapter 7 of the 1918 Club.

He was married in Rumford on May 7, 1941, to the former Eda M. Roberts.

Survivors include his wife of Andover; two granddaughters and their husbands, Sheryl Hoisington and Michael of Epson, N.H., and Linda Simmons-Farwell and Scott of Windsor; and four great-grandchildren. He was predeceased by a daughter, Avis Simmons, on Jan. 15, 1987.

Funeral services were held at the Andover Congregational Church on Saturday, March 24, with the Rev. Jane Rich officiating. Interment will be at Woodlawn Cemetery, Andover, in the spring. Those who desire, please contribute to the Andover Congregational Church, Andover, ME 04216.

CECIL G. ABBOTT

Cecil G. Abbott, 87, of Andover, died Wednesday, March 21, 2001, at the Central Maine Medical Center, Lewiston, as a result of an automobile accident in Rumford on Tuesday, March 20. He was a resident of Andover, where he had lived on North Main Street for many years.

He was born in Rumford on April 28, 1913, the son of Albert and Rena (Hoyt) Abbott, and graduated from Stephens High School, Rumford, in the Class of 1932. Mr. Abbott served with the U.S. Army as a private during World War II with Company B, 404th Engineer Combat Battalion from June 4, 1942 to July 29, 1945, including overseas in the European African Middle Eastern Theater.

Mr. Abbott was self-employed and owned and operated Abbott's Logging Company for many years until retirement when he sold the business to Richard Pelletier.

He was a 50-year member of the Oxford Bear Lodge 54 K. of P. in Hanover and a member of the Napoleon Ouellette Post 24, American Legion. He enjoyed the outdoors, especially fishing and gardening and going to the local suppers and meeting the coffee club at Addie's and Mills' Store in the mornings.

He was married in Bethel on Oct. 6, 1945, to the late Marion Waterhouse, who died in Andover on Feb. 23, 1997.

Survivors include a daughter, Mary Bilodeau and her husband George of Buckfield; a son, Albert of Buckfield; five grandchildren; a sister, Alberta Angevine and her husband Ernest of Northwest Bethel. He was predeceased by a daughter, Phyllis Jean Davison; and a sister, Elizabeth Blake.

Funeral services were held Sunday, March 25, at the Meader & Son Funeral Home, Rumford, with Mr. Steve Waite officiating. Interment will be at the East Ellis Cemetery, Rumford, in the spring. Those who desire may contribute to the Andover Educational Fund, P.O. Box 32, Andover, ME 04216, in his memory.
